

SanaClis awarded the prestigious bronze medal accolade by EcoVadis

Sustainability across all corporate areas throughout the SanaClis group has always been a fundamental pillar upon which we maintain and improve our corporate, social, and environmental responsibilities. In recognition of the rigorous internal and external sustainable processes, it is with immeasurable gratitude that we can announce, that EcoVadis has awarded SanaClis with the Bronze medal sustainability rating for 2021/22.

In-depth analysis into the sustainability review conducted by EcoVadis, found SanaClis to be within the top 22% of all companies within the Scientific Research and Development Industry for multiple sustainable efficiencies. Further, SanaClis is within the top 13% for Environmental sustainability and within the top 14% for Sustainable procurement, within the Scientific Research and Development sector.

Commenting on this important achievement for the company, Chief Executive Officer of SanaClis, Mr. Alexander Fetkovsky said “On behalf of the entire company and our offices and facilities across the world, I would like to express my sincere thanks to all of our employees for their individual contribution to adhering to our internal ethical processes that form part of our internal corporate and social responsibility program, ensuring that SanaClis meets and exceeds our sustainable responsibility targets. It has always been of utter importance that throughout the recent and significant expansion across the company’s service offering, geographical footprint, and capacities, that we do not neglect nor disrupt our mission to meet our sustainability objectives. Moreover, it is important for SanaClis that we continue to push ourselves to achieve the very best sustainable efficiencies possible, both environmentally and for our procurement supply chains. Consequently, SanaClis has made substantial investments into multiple green efficient facilities across the European Union, with the latest construction of our flagship Supply Chain Depot in Bratislava, Slovakia, which was designed with environmental and sustainable considerations from its early conception to final completion. SanaClis shall continue to improve upon its ethical and social responsibilities, which is a fundamental attribute recognised and required by our valued customers”.

This recent bronze award by EcoVadis is the result of a stringent internal corporate and social responsibility program implemented across the company and is strictly enforced to any external parties within the procurement supply chain. SanaClis shall continue to monitor new and innovative process in which the company can further improve upon where possible.
